Case study 003

Treatment 1

Client Profile

003 is 32 years old who is doing very well academically she already acompleted her master degree in computer IT management. She moved back to her parent house which they share with her two younger brothers during the covid 4 years ago she had challenges when she move back with her parent and distance to work which create a lot of stress for her but most time she work from home. She rate her stress level at work as 7 and 3 at home She is not in a relationship and had no kid, she is processing her first morgage and viewimg houses this added to her stress level. She said she usally has a good sleeping pattern but occasionally she find it diffcult to sleep as her mind is racing thinking about work.

She has a busy life style as she acquiring another master degree

Her diet is poor as she always busy with work and study she doesnt eat vegetable she drinks one litre of water a day, she drinks a lot of herbs and green tea for wellbeing. She like travelling going on holidays which she claim she had massage everytime she is on holiday she doesnt excercise she just started a swimming activities as she developed a back and neck pain as a result of constantly sitting and working on the computer, so a regular masssage will do her good and also she think it will help to improve the pain on her back and neck.

Treatment plan

We have decided the best course of treatment for 003 would be weekly full body massage using mainly effleurage, petrissage and percussion over 5 weeks with the back and neck receiving extra attention.

003 works Monday to Friday and with other evenings activities so we agreed that she would attend on a Tuesday evening at 7pm to end the day, a full body massage will be complete each week to aid all parts of her body to destress, we will focus on her back, neck and shoulder. My aim is to loosen her regularly used muscles and help 003 feel lighter in her body.

For relaxation i will use plenty effleurage movement throughout the treatment to sooth and relax the muscles, and i will use petrissage to ease tension and release toxins around her back and shoulders. This week i will concentrate on pain relief, I will also provide 003 with some home care advise to encourage a better lifestyle.

Room Set up

My room set up remain the same as described at the begining of the case study, still at the corner of my sitting room.

How the client felt before the treatment

003 said she was looking forward to her treatment because she know that massage treatment is a huge benefit to muscles, she said she is happy to let me focus on the area that needed more attention.

How the treatment was conducted

I contucted a full body massage on 003 today with a focus on relieving tension on her back, i applied massage oil and began with long effleurage to warm up the muscles of the back of her left leg, i discovered tightness on her gastronemius and soleus muscles on her lower leg and also found tightness on his biceps femoris muscles on her thigh, i worked on her gastronemius with petrissage pick and squeezed to release any tension and toxins. I then moved to her thigh and used effleurage to warm up her muscles, i then used petrissage movements again on the biceps femoris and i performed percussion in the form of cupping and hacking starting on the gluteus maximus, over the thigh and down the lower leg and back over the thigh again. I then used effleurage on the whole leg to help aid relaxation. I covered the leg and drained her foot with effleurage and thumb zig zags on the sole of her foot. I moved onto the right leg repeating the routine as above.

I moved on to the back i began with effleurage to warm up and relax her back muscles i noticed a bump on 003 right upper back in the area of rhomboids i also found tightness in trapezius and deltoids area, i started using thumb circles from either side of the erector spinae and over the detoids and down onto the infraspinatus fascia increasing the pressure to softening the tightness area, i checked with 003 if the pressure is ok, i used petrissage movement again with pick up and roll and wringing to help break down any toxins and release tension in the muscle. These movements will help improve circulation. I did vibration movement with my finger pads along the erector spinae i also used percussion cupping and hacking included the glutes and i used double handed effleurage included the detoids and around the hip making figure 8 after i placed one hand on her shoulder blade and pulse. Then used finger pad stroking towards her head.

Once the back massage had completed i helped 003 turn over onto her back so i could work on her front legs, i used effleurage on her front leg i included the sole of her feet i used petrissage as wringing to worked on tibialis anterior and soleus, i also used friction on the shinbone to stimulate the nerves and loosen any tight muscle in that area. I then used effleurage to relax the muscle and help eliminate toxins from the area. I moved over to the thigh using effleurage to reheat the thigh muscle and wringing to help stretch the rectus femoris and sartorius muscles. I used percussion in the form of cupping and hacking over the thigh area, i completed the leg treatment with effleurage i then repeated the treatment on the front of her right leg as above.

Moving on to the abdomen i used a gentle effleurage on her abdomen in aclockwise direction follow by circle using fingerpads and knuckling to massage the colon and stretching the external obliques i also used wringing along the waist and finished with double handed effleurage in clockwise direction.

I moved to the arm i used long effleurage around the detoids and back outside of flexors and pronator while supporting her wrist, i used friction around detoids and trapezius also frinction on the elbow joint with my finger pads. And again while supporting her wrist i linked my fingers with her fingers and gived a gentle stretch and finished with effleurage inside of arm and around deltoids, and i repeated the routine on the right arm as above.

I moved to the chest i started using efflurage across th platysma and around the detoids to warm up these muscle, i then used petrissage movement by making a thumb circles across the chest and around the deltoids and up to the back of her neck, i repeated these movement to help release tension and toxin in the muscle i also performed a neck stretch and up along the upper arm and over the detoids muscle.

I moved to the face using draining movement i interlace my finger and drained out the chin, i press around the nose with my finger tips and drained i also drained her forehead with effleurage, i used petrissage by giving the eyebrows a gentle pinched in three sections and taping gently all over her face to drained any toxins.

I finished up the treatment with a scalp massage using my finger pads to stimulate the scalp and improve circulation and also relax the nervous system. I finished the treatment with my hands holding her head to reground myself.

How the client felt after the treatment

003 was very relaxed during and after the treatment she felt uncomfortable when i treated her foot she drift on and off to sleep as i worked on her. 003 said she really enjoyed her treatment and pointed out that she enjed the neck stretching around the detoids most and she said she already looking forward to the next treatment.

after care / Home care

i helped 003 to sit up slowly after the treatment and gave her a glass of water to flush out toxins and advised her to increase her water intake over the next few days i then give her privacy to allow her to get dressed.

I recommended a stretched exercise to her to practice and also to do more physical exercise to help ease the tension on her back.

Reflective practice

I was happy with how the treatment went, i felt confident as i worked on my third client i used different pressures in different area which my client found comfortable with, i spent more time on her back as its my area of concerned i completed the full massage in 65 minutes and my client was and satisfied.
