Case study 003

Treatment 4

How the client between the treatment

003 said she felt great and has gegining to feel the benefit impart of the massage treatment and also said she is trying to drink more water in addition to her herbal tea, she has less pain on her back since her last treatment.

How the client felt before the treatment

003 said she was really looking forward to this treatment and said she has been so exited for this week treatment because of the relaxing benefit she noticed from the last treatment.

How the treatment was conducted

I conducted the full body massage on 003 today starting from the legs. The purpose of this treatment is to relax and loosen the muscles of her back. I began with long effleurage with massage oil to warm up the muscles of the back of her left leg. I study the muscle and i feel the tightness in her gastronemius and soleus muscles on her lower leg and tightness on her biceps femoris muscles on her thigh, i worked on the gastronemius and soleus muscles in the form of pick and roll and wringing to release any tension and toxins. I moved to the thigh and used effleuragen to warm up her thigh mucles before using petrissage movements on the biceps femoris, after the petrissage over the thigh muscle i then performed cupping and hacking starting on the gluteus maxius, over the thigh and down the lower leg, i then used effleurage on the whole leg to aid relaxation. I covered up the leg and moved to the foot and drain the foot and i then repeated the treatment on her right leg as above.

I moved to the back, i began again with effleurage, i was more curious this week on her back but i found the bump on 003 back was visibly decreased compared to last treatment and the tighten area has loosen up, i started working on her erector spinae and around trapezius and detoids using thumb circle increasing the pressure as i progressed to break down the bump and ease tension. I used petrissage movement again and wringing to help break down toxins and release tension in the muscle, these movement will also improve circulation. I performed cupping and hacking across the hip including the glutes i then finished with double handed effleurage on the detoids and across the hip.

After i had completed the back massage i helped 003 to turn over onto her back so i could work the front of her legs, i placed a pillow under her knees as i worked the front of her left leg i used effleurage and wringing on the tibialis anterior and soleus, i then stimulate the popliteal i also used effleurage to relax the lower leg muscle. I moved over the thigh using effleurage to reheat the muscle and wringing to help stretch the rectus femoris and sartorius muscles. I used cupping and hacking over the thigh area to improve circulation and muscle tone. I completed the leg treatment with effleurage, i then repeated the treatment on the front of the right leg as above.

I moved to abdomen, i applied medium with effleurage in clockwise direction follow by petrissage around colon. I did not pay much attention on her abdomen on this treatment.

I moved to the arms, i ensured to tucked the towel under her arm, i held her wrist for support as i effleurage the arm, i then used wringing technique on the deltoids and biceps follow by friction using thumb circle along carpels, i effleurage the arm again around the detoid and back down while still supporting the wrist. I then repeated this routine on her right arm.

Moving to the chest, i began using effleurage across platysma and around detoids to warm up the muscles, i the began petrissage movement making a thumb circle aross the chest and around detoid and up to the back of the neck. I also gave both side of her neck a gentle stretch to release any tension in the muscle.

I moved to the face i used draining movements to drain any toxins from the face ,i used effleurage to stretch the forehead and drain out on both sides. I used my fingertips to make a gentle tap all over the face avoiding eyes and mouth.

I moved to the head i used petrissage movement with finger pads to stimulate the scalp and to improve circulation and relax the nervous system to help 003 to feel more relax. I finished the treatment with my hand holding her shoulders to reground myself and shaking off energy from my hand.

How the client felt after the treatment

003 was extremely relaxed throughout the treatment, she commented on my techniques and pressure and said she really enjoyed it and she said she was not as tender on her back as the previous treatment.

After care / home care

After the treatment i helped 003 to sit up and i gave her a glass of water to flush out toxins and i encourage her to continue taking more water and to continue with the stretching excercises morning and evening to prolong the effect of the treatment.

Reflective practice

I was very happy with how this treatment went. i am happy with my progress and I was able to practice in professional manner, i felt my posture was good throughout the treatment. I was pleased to see that 003 was asleep during the back treatment i had to wake her up to turn her over.
